“ We always had fun heated debates about religion and ended it agreeing to disagree. One time though I convinced this super religious old lady that aliens could exist and god just kept them separate from us but taught them the same religion. She never shoved her beliefs on to me but always prayed for me and mine. Sorry to see you go and I will miss our talks.

“ When Florence would visit her great grandchildren after church, she would sometimes doze off on our couch dressed in her Sunday best. It was just so cute and sweet. Her great grandson liked to read books to her and sometimes it was just too much to stay awake :)

“ Mom believed in doing things for others. She was a driver for friends who needed it (age 80!) helped to clean homes when someone couldn't and going out to lunch on the cheap. She enjoyed the simple life so long as God came first. I miss our walks, shared meal times and our political conversations. You were an Irish Fire Cracker!!

Thank you for being my mom.
