

Victoria Angela Snavely

May 5, 1952 - January 13, 2012

Victoria Angela Snavely was born July 5, 1952 in Yonkers, New York. She left us all too soon, January 13, 2012 at Fairchild Medical Center in Yreka. Vickie is survived by her husband, Robert P. Snavely II, her son Mikel Snavely, both of Yreka; her mother, Vivian Helfer; her brother, Richard Szeremeta, as well as several nieces and nephews. She worked for Hegges in Shasta County, and Sight For Sore Eyes. Vickie loved all types of music and the ocean. She also loved light houses. Most of all, she loved life.

"A beautiful rose sits up and smiles, her heart filled with joy and love. The rose keeps blooming even though she is gone but not forgotten. The rose smiles upon us, letting us know how much we are loved. I feel her presence and can't understand why. I felt that this rose should never be picked. She never hated anyone, and she would help anyone who ever needed her hands. Now this rose floats around all the lives she touched, even through her pain, she still smiled. Please don't pick such a beautiful rose, because that's her heart we all have now. The beautiful rose never meant to leave her family and friends. The rose was picked too fast, and will always be in our hearts." Poem written by Samantha Turner.

May your light shine in the darkness, guiding those of us left behind, through hard times and sad, so that we may find peace and joy once again. You will be sorely missed, Vickie, aunt, wife, mother, friend. We love you.
